PRE-LESSON WARM-UP · DO THIS BEFORE YOUR COMPUTER LESSON

Pre-Lesson Warm-Up: What Do I Know About Schools Long Ago?

Answer before the lesson. It is OK to guess!

1. Review from Week 17: Name one way people traveled or moved goods long ago, like a canoe, a canal boat or a train. Tell who used it.

2. Guess: Long ago, many children went to a one-room school. What do you think that means?

3. Draw what you think a classroom looked like about 150 years ago. Label one thing that is different from your classroom.

4. Guess: Long ago, was every child allowed to go to school?

   Yes, every child | No, some children were kept out | I am not sure

5. Write one question you wonder about schools long ago.

POST-LESSON CHALLENGE · DO THIS AFTER YOUR COMPUTER LESSON

Post-Lesson Activity: School Days, Then and Now

Answer after the lesson. Use what you learned as evidence.

1. Name two ways a one-room school was different from your school today.

2. Cause and effect: Farm families needed help to plant and harvest. What was the effect on older boys and school?

3. Find the mistake: A poster says, "Long ago, every child could go to school." Fix it. Name one group who was kept out.

4. Mary Tape's 1885 letter and the 1946 judge's words are both sources. How are they alike?

★ Challenge: Pick Susie King Taylor, Booker T. Washington and Julius Rosenwald, or Zitkála-Šá. On the back, write two sentences: what did they do, and who did it help?

Looking Ahead: Next week: Kids at Work, Then and Now. You will meet children who worked in mills, mines, fields and city streets about 1900, the photographer Lewis Hine, the newsies who went on strike, and the law that changed kids' work.
