2. Guess: About the year 1900, where might a child your age have worked?

3. Guess: Why would a family long ago need a child to work?

4. Which one is a chore, not a job that keeps a kid out of school?

   working all day in a factory | feeding the family pet | selling newspapers all night

5. Write one question you wonder about kids who worked long ago.

POST-LESSON CHALLENGE · DO THIS AFTER YOUR COMPUTER LESSON

Post-Lesson Activity: Kids at Work, Then and Now

Answer after the lesson. Use what you learned as evidence.

1. Cause and effect: Many families were poor, and there were few laws. What was the effect on children?

2. Lewis Hine wrote this caption in 1908: "Sadie Pfeifer, 48 inches high, has worked half a year." What does the caption tell you? What does it NOT tell you?

3. Find the mistake: A poster says, "After the 1938 law, no child in America ever worked again." Fix it.

4. Draw one job a kid had about 1900 and one kind of work a kid does today, like school or a chore. Label both.

★ Challenge: The newsies in 1899 and the mill children in 1903 both spoke up. Pick one. On the back, write what they wanted and what happened.

Looking Ahead: Next week is the Unit 4 Social Studies Checkpoint. It reviews Weeks 16 to 19: learning about the past, getting around, school days and kids at work. Bring a question: Which person from Unit 4 would you most like to meet?
