PRE-LESSON WARM-UP · DO THIS BEFORE YOUR COMPUTER LESSON

Pre-Lesson Warm-Up: Were You There?

Today you will compare two accounts of the first Moon landing in 1969. Show what you already know. It is fine to guess!

1. Review (Week 21): Read: Because the spring dried up, the families moved closer to the river. Name the text structure, and copy the signal word that proves it.

2. Write two sentences about something you did this week. Use the words I or we.

3. Who could give a FIRSTHAND account of a soccer game?

   A player who was on the field | A reporter who read the score online the next day | A cousin who heard about the game a week later

4. What do you already know about the first Moon landing? Write one fact you know and one question you have.

5. Why might a person who was AT an event remember different details than a person who only read about it later?

POST-LESSON CHALLENGE · DO THIS AFTER YOUR COMPUTER LESSON

Post-Lesson Activity: Account Analyst

Write in complete sentences with correct capital letters, commas, and quotation marks.

1. Read two sentences: (1) I could feel the rocket shake under my seat! (2) The rocket carried three astronauts toward the Moon. Which sentence sounds firsthand? Name the clue that tells you.

2. Be the editor. Rewrite each sentence correctly. a) Aldrin said "Magnificent desolation." b) On July 16 1969 the rocket launched from Florida. c) Grandpa Abner and me watched the old video.

3. Michael Collins flew on Apollo 11. He could give a firsthand account of which part?

   Orbiting the Moon in Columbia | Walking on the Moon's surface | Watching television in Grandpa Abner's home

4. Writing: In 4 or 5 sentences, compare Text A (the astronauts' own words) and Text B (the encyclopedia article). Tell what each one focuses on, quote Neil Armstrong's words exactly once, and use while or however.

★ Challenge: Write a short firsthand account of a moment you remember (use I or we). Then rewrite one sentence as a secondhand account (he, she, or they).

Looking Ahead: Week 23: Figurative Language and Word Choice. You will find idioms, similes, metaphors, personification, and hyperbole in a story set at a summer music camp in Nashville, Tennessee.
