PRE-LESSON WARM-UP · DO THIS BEFORE YOUR COMPUTER LESSON

Pre-Lesson Warm-Up: Stories Behind Our Words

Today you will skate at Rockefeller Center in New York City with Meera and her cousin, and read myths from ancient Greece, Rome, and Hawai'i. Show what you already know. It is fine to guess!

1. Review (Unit 5): Read: "Meera gripped the rail with both hands and would not let go." Make an inference about how Meera feels, and write the clue that tells you.

2. A myth is a traditional story, often about gods or heroes. Write the name of any myth, legend, or hero story you have heard of, and one thing that happens in it.

3. Maddox says, "Carrying everyone's skates up the subway stairs was a Herculean job." Hercules was a hero who did twelve almost impossible tasks. What does Maddox mean?

4. Which phrase do you think means "one weak spot in someone strong"?

   An Achilles' heel | A Midas touch | Pandora's box

5. Many myths explain something in nature. Write one question about nature (for example, about the sun, fire, or echoes) that a myth might try to answer.

POST-LESSON CHALLENGE · DO THIS AFTER YOUR COMPUTER LESSON

Post-Lesson Activity: Allusion Detective

Write in complete sentences with correct capitals, commas, apostrophes, and quotation marks.

1. Read: "After Maddox spilled the hot cocoa, he complained about the cold, and then he lost his gloves. 'This trip has turned into Pandora's box,' he sighed." Explain what Maddox means AND tell the myth behind the allusion.

2. Two steps. Aunt Maren is a great skater, but she is afraid of skating backward. Which allusion fits her fear? Write a sentence that uses it correctly.

3. Find the mistake. Mehdi wrote: "Narcissus could only repeat the last words he heard, so Juno turned him into a flower." Rewrite the retelling so it is accurate.

4. Be the editor. Rewrite each sentence correctly. a) Later Midas washed in the river. b) Meera asked, "can we skate at rockefeller center again?"

★ Challenge: In 3 or 4 sentences, retell the Hawaiian moʻolelo of Māui and the sun in your own words. How is it like the myth of Prometheus?

Looking Ahead: Week 27: Mystery stories set in Savannah, Georgia. You will hunt for clues, spot red herrings (clues that point the wrong way), make inferences, and compare how two mysteries handle the same theme.
