PRE-LESSON WARM-UP · DO THIS BEFORE YOUR COMPUTER LESSON

Before Amara Steps Up

Amara has played violin in her school orchestra for two years, always surrounded by other musicians. Now her teacher wants her to play a short solo, alone, in front of the whole school. Before you read her story, warm up your reading brain.

1 Match each word to its meaning. Draw a line, or write the matching letter next to each word.

___ character change	A. Specific facts or details that support an answer.
___ turning point	B. How a character's feelings, beliefs, or behavior are different at the end of a story than at the start.
___ confidence	C. Figuring something out from clues in the text.
___ gradual	D. A feeling of trust in your own ability to do something.
___ inference	E. The key moment in a story where a character's choice or feeling starts to shift.
___ evidence	F. Happening slowly, over time, in small steps — not all at once.

2 Read this sentence: "Amara's hands trembled as she picked up her violin." What can you INFER about how she feels? Write your answer in a full sentence.

3 Has your confidence at something ever grown gradually, over time, instead of all at once? Write 1–2 sentences about it.

After the Final Note

Great work on today's lesson! Now show off what you learned about character change, turning points, and inferring feelings from clues.

1 In 3–4 sentences, retell how Amara CHANGED from the start of the story to the end.

2 What was the TURNING POINT of the story — the moment her feelings started to shift? Explain in 1–2 sentences.

3 Find ONE detail or quote from the story that shows Amara's confidence at the END. Copy it exactly.

★ Challenge: Write your own 4–5 sentence story about a character whose confidence grows gradually. Include a clear turning point.

Looking Ahead: Next week we compare TWO different viewpoints on a class vote — get ready to see both sides! Bring this sheet back to your next lesson.
